HOW TO CURE CONSUMPTION.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DR. SCHENCK'S GREAT MEDICINES.—Will people never learn to know, that a diseased liver and stomach necessarily disease the entire system? The plainest principles of common sense teach this and yet there are hundreds who ridicule the idea, and continue in the course which almost inevitably brings them prematurely to the grave. Living as the majority of the people do, at complete variance with the laws of nature, it must be apparent to all that, sooner or later, nature will revenge herself. Hence we find that persons who indulge to excess in the use of very rich or indigestible food or intoxicating drinks, invariably pay a heavy penalty in the end. The stomach becomes disordered and refuses to act: the liver fails to perform its functions, dyspepsia and its attendant evils follow, and still the suffering individuals persist in clinging to the thoroughly exploded idea of the past. Dr. SCHENK'S medicines are recommended to all such. They bring sure and certain relief wherever they are used as directed, and all that is necessary to establish their reputation with every ailing man or woman in the land is a fair and impartial trial of them. Let those who are skeptical on this point, and who have permitted interested persons to prejudice them against these now celebrated remedies for consumption, discard their prejudices, and be governed by the principles of reason and common sense. If the system is disordered depend upon it, in nine cases out of ten the seat of the disorder will be found in the stomach and liver. To cleanse and invigorate the stomach and to stimulate the liver to healthy action, use

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.—The daily increasing demand for these pills in the best evidence of their value. Thousands upon thousands of boxes are sold daily. Why? Simply because they act promptly and efficiently. Invalids who may not find it convenient to call on Dr. SCHENCK in person are informed that full and complete directions for use accompany each package of the MANDRAKE PILLS, PULMONIC SYRUP AND SEA-WEED TONIC.—These medicines will cure consumption unless the lungs are so far gone that the patient is entirely beyond the reach of medical relief.

It may be asked by those who are not familiar with the virtues of these great remedies, "How do Dr. Schenck's medicines effect their wonderful cures of consumption?" The answer is a simple one. They begin their work of restoration by bringing the stomach, liver and bowels into an active healthy condition. It is food that cures this formidable disease. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS act on the liver and stomach, promoting healthy secretion, and removing the bile and slime which have resulted from the inactive or torpid condition of those organs, and of the system generally. This sluggish state of the body, and the consequent accumulation of the unhealthy substances named, prevent the proper digestion of food, and, as a natural consequence creates disease, which results in prostration and finally in death.

SCHENCK'S PALMONIC SYRUP and SEAWEED TONIC, when taken regularly, mingle with the food, and the digestive organs, make good and rich blood, and as a natural consequence, give flesh and strength to the patient. Let the faculty say what it may, this is the only true cure for consumption. Experience has proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, and thousands are to-day alive and well who a few years since were regarded as hopeless cases, but who were induced to try Dr. SCHENCK'S remedies, and were restored to permanent health by their use.

One of the first steps the physician should take with a consumptive patient is to invigorate the system. Now how is this to be done? Certainly not by giving medicines that exhaust and enervate—medicines that impair instead of improve the functions of the digestive organs. Doctor SCHENCK'S medicines cleanse the stomach and bowels of all substances which are calculated to irritate or weaken them. They create an appetite—promote healthful digestion—make good blood, and, as a consequence, they invigorate and strengthen the entire system and more especially those parts which are diseased. If this cannot be done, then the case must be regarded as a hopeless one.

If the physician finds it impossible to make a patient feel hungry, if the deceased person cannot partake of good nourishing food and properly digest it, it is impossible that he can gain in flesh and strength; and it is equally impossible to bring a patient to this condition so long as the liver is burdened with diseased bile, and the stomach laden with unhealthy slime.

Almost the first request made to the physician by a consumptive patient is that he will prescribe medicines that will allay the cough, night sweats and chills, which are the sure attendants on consumption. But this should not be done, as the cough is only an effort of nature to relieve itself, and the night sweats and chills are caused by the diseased lungs. The remedies ordinarily prescribed do more harm than good. They impair the functions of the stomach, impede healthy digestion, and aggravate rather than cure the disease.

There is, after all, nothing like facts which to substantiate a position, and it is upon facts that Dr. Schenck's relies. Nearly all who have taken his medicines in accordance with his directions have not only been cured of consumption, but, from the fact that these medicines act with wonderful power upon the digestive organs, patients thus cured speedily gain flesh. Cleansing the system of all impurities, they lay the foundation for a solid, substantial structure. Restoring these organs to health, they create an appetite. The food is properly assimilated; the quantity of blood is not only increased, but is made rich and strong and in the face of such a condition of the system all disease must be banished.

Full directions accompany each of the medicines, so that it is not absolutely necessary that patients should see Dr. SCHENCK personally, unless they desire to have their lungs examined. For this purpose he is at his office, No. 15 North Sixth St., corner of Commerce, Phila., every Saturday, from 9 A. M. until 1 P. M.

Advice is given without charge, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is $5.

NIGHT-FALL.

Slowly, slowly up the wall
  Steals the sunshine, steals the shade;
Evening damps begin to fall,
  Evening shadows are displayed.

Round me, o'er me, everywhere,
  All the sky is grand with clouds,
And athwart the evening air
  Wheel the swallows home in clouds.

Shafts of sunshine from the west
  Paint the dusky windows red;
Darker shadows, deeper rest,
  Underneath, and overhead.

Darker, darker, and more wan
  In my breast the shadows fall;
Upward steals the life of man
  As the sunshine from the wall.

From the wall into the sky,
  From the roof along the spire;
Ah, the souls of those that die
  Are but sunbeams lifted higher.

Longfellow.

The Bewitched Clock.

About half past eleven o'clock on Sunday night, a human leg, enveloped in blue broadcloth, might have been seen entering Cophas Barberry's kitchen window. The leg was followed finally by the entire person of a lively Yankee, attired in his Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes. It was, in short, Joe Mayweed who thus burglariously, in the dead of night, won his way into the deacon's kitchen.

"Wonder how much the old deacon made by orderin' me not to darken his door again?" soliloquized the young man. "Promised him I would not, but didn't say nothin' about winders. Winders is just as good as doors if there ain't no nails to tear your clothes onto. Wonder if Sal'll come down? The critter promised me. I'm afraid to move here, 'cause I might break my shins over sumthin' or nother and wake the old folks. Cold enough to freeze a polar bear here.—Oh, here comes Sally!"

The beautiful maiden descended with a smile, a tallow candle, and a box of matches. After receiving a rapturous greeting she made up a roaring fire in the cooking stove, and the happy couple sat down to enjoy the sweet interchange of views and hopes. But the course of true love ran no smoother in old Barberry's kitchen than it did elsewhere, and Joe who was making up his mind to treat himself to a kiss, was startled by the voice of the deacon, her father, shouting from his chamber door:

"Sally, what are you getting up in the middle of the night for?"

"Tell him it's most morning," whispered Joe.

"I can't tell him a fib," said Sally.

"I'll make it a truth, then," said Joe, and running to the huge old-fashioned clock that stood in the corner, he sat it at five.

"Look at the clock and tell me what time it is," cried the old gentleman up stairs.

"It's five by the clock," answered Sally, and corroborating the words the clock struck five.

The lovers sat down again and resumed the conversation. Suddenly the stair case began to creak. "Good gracious! it's father!"

"The deacon, by thunder!" cried Joe. "Hide me, Sal!"

"Where can I hide you," cried the distracted girl.

"Oh, I know," said he, "I'll squeeze into the clock case," and without another word he concealed himself in the case and drew the door behind him.

The deacon was dressed, and sitting himself down by the cooking stove, pulled out his pipe, lighted it, and commenced smoking very deliberately and calmly.

"Five o'clock, eh?" said he. "Well I shall have time to smoke three or four pipes full, then I'll go and feed the critters."

"Hadn't you better go and feed the critters first, sir, and smoke afterwards? suggested the dutiful Sally.

"No, smokin' clears my head and wakes me up," answered the deacon, who seemed not a whit disposed to hurry his enjoyment.

Bur-r-r-r—whiz z—ding—ding! went the clock.

"Tormented lightning!" cried the deacon, starting up, and dropping his pipe on the stove. "What in creation is that?"

"It's only the clock striking five," said Sally, tremulously.

"Powers of mercy!" cried the deacon. "Striking five! it's struck a hundred already."

"Deacon Barberry!" cried the deacon's better-half, who had hastily robed herself, and now plunging down the staircase in the wildest state of alarm, "what is the matter of the clock?"

"Goodness only knows," replied the old man. "It's been in the family these hundred years, and never did I know it to carry on so before."

Whiz! bang! bang! bang! went the clock.

"It'll burst itself!" cried the old lady, shedding a flood of tears, "and there won't be nothing left of it."

"It's bewitched," said the deacon, who retained a leaven of New England superstition in his nature. "Anyhow," he said, after a pause, advancing resolutely toward the clock, "I'll see what's got into it!"

"Oh, don't!" cried the daughter, affectionately seizing one of his coat tails, while his faithful wife hung to the other.

"Don't!" chorused both the women together.

"Let go my raiment!" shouted the deacon, "I ain't afraid of the powers of darkness."

But the women would not let go, so the deacon slipped off his coat, and while, from the sudden cessation of resistance, they fell heavily on the floor he darted forward and laid his hand on the door of the clockcase. But no human power could open it. Joe was holding it inside with a death grasp. The deacon began to be dreadfully frightened. He gave one more tug.—An unearthly yell, as of a fiend in distress, came from the inside, and then the clockcase pitched headforemost on the floor, smashed its face, and wrecked its proportions.

The current of air extinguished the light; the deacon, the old lady, and Sally fled up stairs, and Joe Mayweed, extricating himself from the clock, effected his retreat in the same way that he entered. The next day all Appleton was alive with the story of how Deacon Barberry's clock had been bewitched; and though many believed its version, some, and especially Joe Mayweed, effected to discred it the whole affair, hinting that the deacon had been trying the experiment of tasting frozen cider, and that the vagaries of the clockcase existed only in a distempered imagination.

Death of Capt. James Brady.

Some time ago we published an interesting communication from the pen of ex-Governor W. F. Packer, explaining the true origin of the name of Bald Eagle Creek, in which allusion was made to the murder of Captain James Brady, by a band of savages under the command of the famous Indian chief, Bald Eagle. As a full account of that affair, together with the melancholy death of his father, may prove interesting to our readers, we propose to sketch it briefly.

On the 8th of August 1778, Colonel Hartley, who had been ordered to the West Branch Valley with a regiment of men, for the protection of the settlers against the Indians, selected a corporal and some eight men to proceed from Fort Muncy to the farm of Peter Smith, and guard a company of reapers who were cutting his crop.—Peter Smith's farm was situated a short distance below where Williamsport now stands. About a month previous his wife and four children had been brutally murdered by the savages, and the cutting of the crop had been delayed.

James Brady, son of Captain John Brady, and a younger brother of Capt. Sam. Brady, the famous Indian killer, was one of the party. It was the custom in those days of peril, when no commissioned officer was present, for the company to select a leader, whom they styled captain, and obeyed him as such. Young Brady, on account of his shrewdness and daring, was selected to take command of the party, which numbered about twenty men. They arrived at the farm on Friday, and stationing a few sentinels, proceeded to work. That night four of the party left and returned to Fort Muncy. Nothing unusual occurred during the night, and the next day they commenced work early. The morning was quite foggy, and they had not worked more than an hour before they were suddenly surprised by a band of Indians who stealthily approached under cover of the fog.—The sentinels discharged their rifles, and ran towards the reapers. A panic seemed to seize the party, and they all fled, with the exception of young Brady, who ran towards his rifle, pursued by three Indians. When he was within a few feet of it he was fired at, but falling over a sheaf of grain, the shot missed him. He immediately rose, and as he was in the act of grasping his rifle, he was wounded by a shot from an Indian. He succeeded in getting hold of his gun, and shot the first Indian dead. He caught up another gun and brought down a second savage, when the party closed around him. Being stout, active and brave, he fought them vigorously for a few minutes. At length he was struck in the head with a tomahawk, and almost immediately afterwards received a thrust from a spear,* when he was so stunned that he fell. He had no soon er fallen than he was pounced upon and his scalp ruthlessly torn from his head. It was considered a great trophy by the Indians, as he had very long and remarkably red hair. A little Indian was then called and made to strike a tomahawk into his head in four places. The Indians then hurriedly departed.

After recovering somewhat, he succeeded, by walking and creeping, in reaching the cabin of an old man named Jerome Van Ness, near the bank of the river. On hearing the firing, he had concealed himself; but on seeing Brady approaching him in his terribly wounded condition, immediately went to his assistance. James begged the old man to fly for his own safety, as the Indians would probably soon return and kill him also.

He refused to leave him, but proceeded to dress his frightful wounds as best he could. Brady then requested to be assisted down to the river, where he drank large quantities of water. He then begged the old man to bring his gun, which he did, when he laid down and appeared to sleep.

As soon as the intelligence of the slaughter reached the fort, Captain Walker mustered a party and proceeded to the spot. On their arrival where Brady lay, he heard the noise, and supposing that it was occasioned by Indians, immediately jumped to his feet, cocked his rifle and prepared to fight. Finding the party to be composed of friends, he requested to be taken to his mother at Sunbury. They placed him on a litter and took him away. A party was made up to carry him to Sunbury. They proceeded as rapidly as possible. He constantly thirsted for water and soon became delirious. When they arrived at Sunbury it was late at night. His mother, however, had a presentiment that something had occurred, and meeting the party at the bank of the river, assisted to convey her wounded son to the house. He presented a frightful spectacle, and the grief of his mother is said to have been terrible.

The young Captain only lived five days. On the day he died his reason returned and he described the whole scene he had passed through with great minuteness. He knew the leader of the Indians to be Bald Eagle.—He was deeply mourned, for he was beloved by all who knew him. His death was afterwards revenged by his brother Samuel, who shot Bald Eagle† through the heart on the banks of the Allegheny river.

Captain John Brady, the father of James, was shot by the Indians on the 11th of April, 1779, at a spot where the main road from Muncy to Williamsport now crosses Wolf run. His death was a terrible shock to his wife, bowed down as she was in mourning for the tragic fate of her son James the previous year. When Samuel heard the death of his father it is recorded that he took this fearful oath: "Aided by Him who formed yonder sun and heavens, I will revenge the murder of my father; nor while I live will I ever be at peace with the Indians of any tribe." From that time forth he became the avenger of blood, and hunted Indians like wild beasts of the forest. So terrible and unrelenting was he towards the race that his name became a terror to them. He slaughtered many and fearfully fulfilled his vow.

Gen. Hugh Brady says that his father and mother had six sons and four daughters. The boys all lived to be men, in every sense of the term, and at a period when the qualities of men were put to the most severe and enduring tests. Speaking of his brother James he says: "James Brady was a remarkable man. Nature had done much for him. His person was fine. He lacked but a quarter of an inch of six feet, and his mind was as well finished as his person. I have ever placed him by the side of Jonathan, son of Saul, for beauty of person and nobleness of soul, and like him he fell by the hands of the Philistines."

The names of these six boys were Samuel, James, John, William, Hugh and Robert. There was but half an inch difference in their heights.

The father of these six boys was buried on Muncy farm, and it is feared that all traces of his grave have been lost. Mary, their mother, weighed down by grief and care, died at the early age of forty-eight. Her remains repose in the cemetery at Lewisburg. Her son John, the heroic lad who fought by the side of his father at Brandywine, was buried by her side. Samuel, the remorseless Indian killer, died on Christmas day, 1795, at the age of 39. Hugh Brady, who fought at Lundy's Lane and Bridgewater, and subsequently rose to the rank of Brevet Major General, died at Detroit in 1751, at the ripe age of 83. To speak in detail of the many heroic deeds of this illustrious family, would require a large-sized volume.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.—A little romance of a sprained ankle comes from St. Louis, in which a young clerk, a young lady school-teacher, and a dog are leading features. The clerk and the school-teacher, it appears from previous concatenation of circumstances, had fallen desperately in love. One evening, as the couple were proceeding to church, a ferocious dog jumped over a fence and "went for" the lady. Here was a chance for chivalry, and the young man gallantly improved it. Throwing himself in front of his fair one he gave the attacking monster a blow which sent him a flying with yelps of ignominious defeat; but in the very moment of victory the young man fell and sprained his ankle. It was now the turn for womanly heroism to display itself. The school-teacher was a girl with no nonsense about her. She at once ordered a hack, helped her lover in, accompanied him to his room, bathed and dressed his ankle, watched over him all night, and naturally enough went for a friend and minister next day, and married her man in the evening. What could be a more satisfactory termination of the story than this?

OUR PRESENT DUTY.—The living—give them kind words and loving deeds. Wait not to carve a eulogy upon the stone above their heads; keep not back the merited word of commendation while they dwell in the flesh. Too many, alas! too many shut the door of their hearts till the loved one has passed on; till the warm, loving heart has ceased to beat, and the willing hand is palsied in death. Then the words which should have cheered their souls in life ripple over their graves—words which, if given while they were with us in the flesh, would have linked them to our souls, and, now that they have risen, would, like a chain of love, have drawn us up to them. It is natural for us to idealize, and speak tenderly, lovingly of those men call "the dead." It is refining, comforting, and assuring to our souls to do so: but let us remember that the kind word and deed to the living to-day are better than any eulogy we may place upon the tombstone we rear for them to-morrow.—MRS. J. S. A.—Phrenological Journal.

NEVER RAISE A CHILD BY THE HAND OR WRIST.—It is a common practice of nurses and parents to grasp children by a single hand or wrist, and lift them bodily, as in stepping over gutters, streams, &c. Occasionally a child is seized by the hands and swung around with great force, the body being held nearly at right angles. This feat is not always followed by immediate ill effects, but it is liable to result in most serious injury. At this period of life, the ends of the long bones are united to the shafts by cartilage, which renders them weak and liable to be distorted by force. There are three of these bones in the arm; one between the shoulder and elbow, and two between the elbow and wrist. The arm of the child is, therefore, very weak.—When extension is made at the hand, the force is not expended upon long, firm bones, but rather upon bones broken at several points, and very loosely united. A small force, far less than is required to break a fully formed bone, will separate the cartilaginous portions or permanently bend them. There is also another form of injury which may occur at the instant. Of this I have seen several examples. It consists in a slight displacement of the cartilages in one of the joints, either the wrist or elbow, attended pain, swelling, and tenderness. The joint is fixed in a semi-flexed position, and the little sufferer, will not allow it to be moved, or even handled. It can be easily rectified by a surgeon, by forcible flexion and extension. Finally, by lifting a child in this manner the ligaments about the joints may be extended, and this weakness may remain as a permanent disability.—From the Note-book of an eminent Physician, in Hearth and Home.

CONSTRUCTION OF PIANOS.—In an ordinary piano there are fifteen kinds of wood, namely: pine, maple, spruce, cherry, walnut, whitewood, apple, bass-wood, birch, mahogany, ebony, holly, cedar, beech, and rosewood, from Honduras, Ceylon, England, South America, and Germany. In this combination elasticity, strength, pliability, toughness, resonance, lightness, durability, and beauty, are individual qualities, and the general result is "voice." There are also used of the metals, iron, steel, brass, white metal, gun metal, and lead. There are in an instrument of full size 214 strings, making a total length of 787 feet of steel wire, and 500 feet of white (covering) wire.—Such a piano will weigh from 900 to 1000 pounds, and will last with constant use (not abuse) fifteen or twenty years. The total manufacture of pianos in New York alone averages 15,000 per annum.

IS FRIDAY AN UNLUCKY DAY?—Friday, long remembered as a day of ill omen, has been an eventful one in American history, and Americans ought not to be afraid of it.

Friday, Christopher Columbus sailed on his voyage of discovery.

Friday, ten weeks after, he discovered America.

Friday, Henry III gave John Cabot his commission, which led to his discovery of North America.

Friday, St. Augustine, the oldest town in the United States, was founded.

Friday, the Mayflower with the pilgrims, arrived at Plymouth, Mass.

Friday, Geo. Washington was born.

Friday, Bunker Hill was seized and fortified.

Friday, the surrender of Cornwallis occurred; and on Friday, the motion was made, in Congress that the United States were, and of right ought to be, free and independent.

☞ The following rather hard hits by way of definition, not to be found in Webster, may cause a smile:

Slanderer—A bad dog that goes unchained, and snaps at everybody that is better than himself. This applies also to the feminine gender.

THE House has passed a resolution giving Mrs. Lincoln a pension of $3000 per annum; the Pension Committee in the Senate reported the same bill with a recommendation that it be indefinitely postponed, which is about the best disposition to make of it.

IN the contested election case of Sheppard vs. Gibbons for District Attorney, the Court has declared in favor of Sheppard, a Democrat. This shows the justice of Republicans, as out of the four judges three are Republicans.

"THE BEE" is the name of a lively penny paper just started in Philadelphia, and published by McClintock & Co. Of the fourteen dailies now printed in that city, "The Bee" is equal in typographical neatness and editorial ability to any of them and we hope its usefulness will last for more than a season.

NEWS has been received from Ireland that the Queen's troops and the people had a fight in the town of Kanturk, county of Cork. The fight originated among some drunken soldiers who attacked the populace without any provocation. The police were called to quell the disturbance which they did after great difficulty.

A "White Man's Party" was recently advertised to organize in Wilmington, Delaware. The day arrived, and with it a handful of the most faithful. The meeting adjourned without doing anything but wait for more converts, and the "White Man's Party" concluded that as it took numbers to win they had not the ghost of a chance to succeed on that cry.

WE cannot see why men should oppose the payment of an income tax, any more than a poor man should object to paying a tax on his little property. The government must derive revenue from some source, and we don't know of any better mode than making those with incomes pay their share, as they can afford it better than the poor man who owns but his own home.

"Something has made the Globe singularly anxious to perpetuate the present strife."—Journal & American.

For four months past the Journal & American and the Republican had all the "strife" to themselves—we having taken a back seat. We are to-day where we have been since we joined hands with the Republican party in the selection and election of Grant—in favor of strict party organization, and of supporting party nominations. When we go back on either it will be time enough for the Journal & American editors to try to get us down on a political level with themselves. As a Republican paper the Globe has a plain duty to perform, and it will perform it, Robert's notions of peace and harmony to the contrary notwithstanding. If the leading mischief-makers of last fall wish to repent and return to the support of the party, we certainly will not object, but will be happy to see them in line again fighting for and not against Republican nominees. "Let us have peace."

Mrs. Willard was a candidate for mayor at the recent election in Bellevillo, Huron county, Ohio, and received sixty votes. They have a woman's suffrage society in that town.

The United States Supreme Court has adjourned until October 31.

"The Situation."

Mr. McDivitt, of the Journal & American, offered in the Republican County Committee a preamble and resolution which was unanimously adopted. The preamble read as follows:

"WHEREAS, a most unfortunate and causeless difficulty has for some time past existed, &c."

To this Mr. Cremer, editor of the Republican replies as follows:

"Are we to understand that we, who openly opposed a secret political organization are now to stultify ourselves by agreeing that the difficulty was 'causeless'—that there was no secret ring—or if there was, it was right, and no cause for bolting its nominations? If that is expected of us, it is more than will ever be conceded."

So it appears Mr. Cremer and his associate advisers are of the same notion still; that any number of Republicans can bolt a party nomination and commit no wrong. If the next convention should nominate gentlemen not enemies of Mr. Woods, or ourself, we suppose Mr. Cremer would feel justified in again opposing the ticket. We are glad to know that Mr. Cremer don't speak the sentiments of all who were deceived by him last fall, and with such as him we don't want peace. We only want peace with men who will agree to support party nominations—and such only can be recognized as party men, or worthy an influence or a voice in the party. If the ticket next fall should be composed of gentlemen who opposed the ticket last fall, the men who supported the ticket last fall might say a secret ring had made the nominations and as guerillaism was endorsed as respectable they would turn in with the Democracy and crush "ring" ticket No. 2, and they would be about as near right as the mischief-makers were last fall—and then the Democracy would again rejoice as men never rejoiced. "Let us have peace."

Reduction of the Debt.

The public debt statement for the 1st instant shows a reduction for the month of April of $11,697,793. The coin balance in the Treasury is reported at $115,525,000, including $33,840,000 in coin certificates. Currency balance in the Treasury $6,954,000. The total debt, principal and interest, including coupons due and unpaid, $2,654,193,484. Debt less amount in Treasury $2,420,864,334. Decrease of debt since March 1, 1870, $17,464,142; while for the corresponding two months of 1869 the decrease was only $6,665,689. In connection with these facts it is deserving of notice that greater efficiency in the collection of internal taxes is increasing their volume perceptibly. In April, 1869, they yielded $12,060,053, and in the month just closed $13,306,188. The increse for the last ten months has been $25,755,402 greater than it was in the corresponding period of the last fiscal year.

These are encouraging exhibits, and highly creditable to the present Administration. They show that the good work of paying the public debt is going forward with accelerated speed.

Soldiers not Exempt from Income Tax

OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
Washington, April 8, 1870.

Hon. John B. Packer, M. C., House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

SIR:—The letter of John C. Harvey and others, of Harrisburg, addressed to you, and by you referred to me, has been received. These gentlemen enclose a newspaper slip headed, "Honorably discharged soldiers exempt from taxation of incomes," and call attention to the joint resolution of July 28, 1866, a copy of which I herewith enclose. They inquire if they are not exempt from taxation upon their income of 1869 by reason of said resolution.

I reply that they are not; that the resolution of July 28, 1866, refers exclusively to the tax imposed by the joint resolution of July 4, 1864.

The act of June 30, 1864, imposed cetain taxes upon annual gains, profits, and income of the year 1864. The joint resolution of July 4, 1864, imposed a tax of five per cent upon the income of 1863, additional to that imposed thereon by the act of 1862; The tax underthe act of June 30 was withheld from the pay of the officers of the Army by the disbursing officers as provided by law. The resolution of July 4, 1864, contained no provision for withholding the tax thereby imposed. Consequently, when the war closed, and the officers and soldiers returned home, it was found that they were liable to taxation upon both their pay and other income, under the resolution of July 4, and assessors, as was their duty, began to make assessments. The matter was brought to the notice of Congress, and the resolution of July 23, 1866, was immediately passed, declaring that the special income tax imposed by said resolution of July 4, should not "be further enforced against said officers or soldiers lately in the service of the United States, and who have been honorably discharged therefrom.

As, already stated, however, the exemption is limited to the special income tax imposed by the resolution of July 4, and has no reference whatever to the income of 1869.

SHAD IN THE SUSQUEHANNA.—The famous fish bill, declared unconstitutional by Judge Pearson, will be argued at the May term of the Supreme Court. The unconstitutionality was declared principally on the ground that it was a violation of the chartered rights of corporations to compel them to remove, or alter at great expense, dams they have erected and which obstruct the passage up the river of shad, and other fish.—Daily Topic.

A Terrible Debauch.

Death Under Singular Circumstances—A Young Man in His Carousals dies in an Area.--A Female Companion Sleeps on His Body.

From the New York Herald, May 3d.

Coroner Rollins was yesterday called to the Eighth precinct station house to investigate a somewhat singular case of death. Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning Officer McKinney, of the Eighth precinct, in going his rounds discovered two persons lying at the bottom of a flight of steps of premises No. 118 Bleecker street.

An examination, which the officer made at once, showed that a woman was lying across the body of a dead man, and that she was fast asleep.—With much difficulty she was aroused and taken to the Prince Street Station and there said her name was Mary Lee, of No. 174 Wooster street. The body of the man was carried to the station house, where it was subsequently identified as that of Robert Gibbons Phillips, an adopted son of John B. Phillips, deceased, formerly Assistant District Attorney under Jno. McKeon. The testimony showed that deceased had been drinking to excess on Sunday, and at 2 o'clock in the morning he left No. 205 Wooster st., telling a female companion that he should take a car and ride up to Central Park.

After leaving the house, however, deceased met Mary Lee in a porter house, and taking a drink or two, they started off together. In staggering along Bleecker street they stepped into the unprotected area and fell to the bottom of the flight of stairs, Phillips falling with so much force as to burst a panel from the basement door with his head. Doubtless the injuries reduced him to insensibility, from which he did not recover. The woman fell across his body, and being so deeply intoxicated, failed to comprehend what had happened, and sank into a sound sleep over the corpse of her more unfortunate companion.—When brought to a realizing sense of her condition by official interference, Mary was almost horror-stricken, promising to sign the pledge and never more indulge in the use of strong drink. Dr. John Beach examined the body of Mr. Phillips, and in his opinion death resulted from concussion of the brain, caused by the fall, and such was the verdict of the jury.

The jury also censure the owner of promises No. 118 Bleecker street for not placing a railing around the steps of said building for the protection of human life.

Deceased was thirty-five years of age and a native of this city. He lived at No. 157 West Thirty-first street, but spent very little of his time there.—Friends took charge of the remains for interment.

EXPOSURE OF CHILDREN.—Spring is returning to us, and with the first inklings of its advent comes the disposition to lay aside winter clothing and don that of lighter fabric. Every dictate of prudence rebels against this practice. Nine tenths of the diseases incident to this season of the year are due to this most unwise practice It is especially so in the case of children, who as soon as a bright sunny day appears, are decked out in summer rig and sent on the streets and into the squares to see and to be seen. They look handsome, and that appears to be all the fond mothers, who thus cruelly expose them, think or care about. But the penalty frequently paid for this indiscretion is a most fearful one. There are many households whose untimely deaths are due to this most pernicious practice of 'forestalling the season' in the article of dress. The wonder is not that so many children die, but that so many live A distinguish French physician says: "I believe that, during my twenty six years" practice, twenty thousand children have been carried to the cemeteries, a sacrifice to theabsurd custom of exposing the arms naked." Such a startling fact as this should have weight with parents.

BEDFORD AND BRIDGEPORT RAILROAD.—The survey of the railroad from Mt. Dallas to Bedford was made by Mr. Fulton, Chief Engineer of the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad. The estimates will be made soon and will be laid before our readers at the earliest moment. It is believed that the grading and bridging of the road can be done for $75,000 and perhaps less. If the estimates verify these figures, there will be but little difficulty in raising the money and putting the road under contract in a short time.—The distance as surveyed is seven miles and a half, following the river, crossing at Mt. Dallas and keeping the south side until west of the gap below Bedford. There will be two bridges, one at Mt. Dallas and one over the Raystown branch above the junction with Dunning's creek. We hope to be able to report the survey of the Bridgeport section in a short time, as that portion of the road is of the highest importance to our iron interests and in case of any difficulty on the eastern section may be built first.—Bedford Inquirer.

THIRTY MINUTES OLD.—A few weeks ago a babe was left at the New York Foundling Hospital by a man, that, at the farthest, could not have been thirty minutes old. It was merely rolled in a piece of cotton rag, and when taken from the basket — the gentleman had the grace to ring the bell—it was thought to be dead, but restoratives were quickly applied, which produced feeble respiration for a moment, and while the faint animation lingered it was baptized, and, in the hurry and lack of a better, named John Smith. The Christian rite was hardly over when the quivering eyelids above the eyes that had never opened were still, and the little spirit fluttered up to the glory of God; the mighty mystery of birth, life and death solved in a single hour.—Phila. Press.

While Richard Cobden was in the United States he visited an Illinois farmer who owned twenty thousand acres, who told the eminent English statesman, while entertaining him with some fine peach brandy, that he had laid away two hundred barrels of it for old age. "Certainly," as the old advocate of free trade remarked, "a most extraordinary provision for his declining years."

Cheap Wall Paper at Lewis' Book Store.

Incendiaries have again been at their diabolical work in Altoona.

The recent rains have made the garden plants show their shoots.

The Tyrone Bank building was slightly damaged by fire last week.

The Broad Top and Penna. schedules have been changed. See advertisements.

A. T. Kettle is the only singer in the world that was never known to catch a cold.

Dr. Gleason has been lecturing in Bellefonte. Furey should have heard him.

The Indiana county court has refused to grant any licenses for the sale of liquor.

The Democrats of Bedford county have abolished the Crawford county system.

Bedford votes on the 27th inst., whether their poor house shall or shall not be sold.

The soldiers' graves in our cemetery are to be appropriately decorated on the 30th inst.

Beaver, this State, has a Blue Front Grocery. We doubt if it can compete with the Red Front Grocery in this place.

We will have lots of potatoes next fall as almost every owner of an unoccupied lot has planted it with this vegetable.

There was no lack of rain last week, and housekeepers brought every available vessel into requisition.

Our jurymen will get $2 a day hereafter, which will about pay their expenses, if they are not too extravagant.

A man in office who tries to please everybody by disputing bills generally loses more than he gains.

The Tyrone Blade has come to time, and is a neat production of a Holmes-y genius. We wish it long life and abundant prosperity.

Altoona is to celebrate the 4th of July by horse racing. It is time Huntingdon should celebrate at least one 4th of July.

The colored element can enlist in the militia if they want. We will not speak for our company, however.

Some of our exchanges along the line don't like it, that two trains pass their station without stopping. They had better get up a "bull," as did a certain Pope.

Everybody favorable to the organization of a Building and Loan Association attend the meeting on to-morrow evening at the office of P. M. & M. S. Lytle.

A few new brick pavements in different parts of our borough would add greatly to the comfort of pedestrians. We are glad to note that some have been made.

Bro. Jones, of the Tyrone Herald, was scorched in the back the other day by the flame from a tallow candle. Was that the first time he experienced a fire in the rear?

The Tyrone Herald says, "Huntingdon's fifteenth amendments gave a splendid public dinner on the 26th inst." That's news to us; we didn't know our fifteenths were such festive cusses.

Bro. Traugh is catching "fits" for not turning out with his band to blow for the colored men at their jubilee. Serves him right. If he is a Democrat, he had no right to go back on his band.

Nearly all our housekeepers are afflicted with the house cleaning mania. The doctors say it requires plenty of water and good weather to insure their speedy recovery. We are glad they have both.

Another unknown man was killed at Bixler's Gap by the cars one day last week.—This Gap is located between Mifflin and Lewistown, and we would caution wayfarers to look out for the locomotive at that point, unless they are willing to commit suicide.

Over in India when the natives want to get rid of the old folks because they are feeble, the sons take them down to the Ganges, smother them by filling their mouth and nose with mud, and then they throw them in the river. And yet there are many who think the heathen should be "let alone."

It is said that to bind a roasted onion on the wrist will cure a toothache. About the best advice we can think of is, when thy tooth offends thee, pluck it out, for it is better to be minus one bad tooth, than to keep yourself and a host of friends in continual misery, roasted onions to the contrary notwithstanding.

In a cemetery in Philadelphia there are seven graves, side by side, which contain the remains of a man and his six wives. When the first wife died the third one was three years old and the fifth an infant of twelve months, while the last wife was not born till the year following the death of the first.

The editor of the Globe says that Huntingdon intends to bury its fossils. The Globe man had better get his coffin ready, then.—Bellefonte Watchman. One thing at a time, Bro. Furey. We think our town needs our services first; when we are through here we may be needed over your way; so keep yourself in statu quo.

The passion for dress, about which we hear so much now, is nothing new. An old satirist thus lampoons the ladies of his day:

"What is the reason—can you guess—
Why men are poor and women thinner?
So much do they for dinner dress,
That nothing's left to dress for dinner."

HEADQUARTERS POST No, 33, G. A. R. Huntingdon May 7, 1870.—The following General Orders have been received at these Headquarters and are published for the information of members of the post:—

Headquarters Grand Army of the Republic, Adjutant-General's Office, Washington April 30, 1870. General Orders No. 8:—

I. The annual ceremonies of "Memorial Day," which has been firmly established by national choice and consent, will take place on Monday, the 30th day of May.

II. All Departments, Districts, Posts, and Comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, whenever dispersed throughout the land, will unite in such manner, and with such ceremonies, for the proper observance of the day as may be best suited to each respective locality, and all organizations, communities, and persons whose grateful aid, sympathy and prayers sustained us throughout the dark days of the Nation's peril, and those whose loyal, patriotic, hearts beat in unison with our own, and who have heretofore, or may hereafter, join with us in the observance of this National Memorial Day, are hereby cordially invited to unite, and are earnestly requested to lend their aid and assistance in strewing the pure garlands of Spring, that come with votive memories of love and prayer, o'er the mounds that mark the country's altar and fold in rest eternal our martyred dead.

This is the third public observance of a day which has become marked and national for this sacred occasion. Many are now missing from our ranks who were with us before. Time, with busy finger, counts the hours for all. "In the midst of life we are in death," and one by one our veterans are "mustered out" to join the Grand Army on high. Let this teach us that we should so live that when we too are gone, it can be said: He was a citizen, a soldier, and comrade "without fear and without reproach."

III. It is desirable that the memorial service may be preserved, and Department and Post Commanders will forward direct to the Adjutant General at National Headquarters, a record of such proceedings as may occur in his locality. Should the same appear in the press, or by pamphlet, a duplicate corrected copy is requested.

By order of JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commander-in-chief.
WM. T. COLLINS,
Adjutant-General.

The Ceremonies of "Memorial Day" will be duly observed at this place. For the purpose of making the necessary preparations all the members of the post are requested to be present at the stated meeting on Monday evening 16th inst.

By order of the Post Commander,
MILTON S. LYTLE,
Adjutant.

Accidents.

On Wednesday last, Mr. Harry Welch, conductor of a freight train, while attempting to get on his engine at the coal wharf above town, was struck by a passenger train, and had his ankle badly crushed. Dr. Miller dressed the wound, and on the same day he went to his home in Harrisburg, where, we learn, his foot had to be amputated on Saturday.

On Thursday last an unknown man who was walking on the railroad near Green's ore bank, below Spruce Creek, was struck on the back by a large stone, and badly injured. He was sent to his home in Pittsburgh the next day and we learn is doing well.

Huntingdon Building and Loan Association.

All persons who have taken stock in or who desire to become members of the Huntingdon Building and Loan Association are requested to meet at the office of P. M. & M. S. Lytle, on Wednesday evening, the 11th inst.—The object of this meeting is to adopt a Constitution and By-Laws for the Association and to prepare a petition to the Court for its incorporation.

PAPER HANGINGS.—An exchange says: When an amateur attempts this kind of domestic decoration, it is desirable that he should attend to the following instructions; otherwise the work, when finished, will be blemished and stained. First, pumice-stone the wall to remove all irregularities of surface; then wash over with size, about one pint of glue to a gallon of water, and when dry, the wall is ready to receive the paper. The paste should be well boiled and then passed through a hair sieve to extract the lumps, a fruitful source of stains. If the walls are inclined to show dampness add a little corrosive sublimate to the paste to prevent mildew forming on the surface of the paper. The most important matter is to allow the paper to remain pasted for about ten minutes before hanging, in order that it may be well stretched before being placed on the wall. Stout paper hangings, such as the "flocks," etc., require a longer time. If these directions are attended to, the thinnest papers will hang without a crease, or the objectionable water stains which characterize bad workmanship.

EVERY MAN IN HIS OWN HOUSE.—In this country there is no workingman, be he ever so poor and humble, who may not, if he will, better his condition with each succeeding year. To do this, he must correct the habit of spending every week the full week's earnings. He must begin by saving a little instead of spending all. Half a dollar will amount to twenty-six dollars in a year. In four years this savings, will give the sum of over a hundred dollars. In ten years, adding interests to his savings, the poor man will be able to buy a little house. If he save a dollar a week instead of half a dollar, he can have a house twice as large; and larger still in proportion to the weekly amount of his savings. Who will not be a householder? It is what we waste, or spend in useless self-indulgence, that keeps us poor.—Ex.

Catholic Church, Huntingdon.

A CARD.—I hereby respectfully inform my friends and all generous and kind-hearted persons of the public generally, that I am getting up a Picnic to be held near the Cottage, on Friday the 20th, and Saturday, the 21st of May, inst., for the purpose of paying off a portion of the debt due on the Church and Pastoral residence.—Should this meet a favorable response in the kind hearts of our good neighbors, and should they honor us with their presence, we will be under an obligation which we cannot forget.

Rev. R J. AYLWARD,
P. O. Box 170, Huntingdon, Pa.

LECTURES ON INDIA.—Rev. John D. Brown, nine years a Missionary in India, having just returned to his native land, will deliver two lectures for the benefit of the Y M C A, in the Court House on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 20th and 21st, on the Manners and Customs of the Natives of that heathen land. Go and hear him.

ROSADALIS

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousand of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro' Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

XIV.

PLOWING—DEEP OR SHALLOW.

Rules absolutely without exception are rare; and they who imagine that I insist on plowing all lands deeply are wrong; for I hold that much land should never be plowed at all. In fact, I have seen in my life nearly as large an area that ought not as I have that ought to be plowed; by which I mean that half the land I have seen may serve mankind better if devoted to timber than subjected to tillage. I personally know farmers who would thrive far better if they tilled but half the area they do, bestowing on this all the labor and fertilizers they spread over the whole, even though they threw the residue into common and left it there. I judge that a majority of our farmers could increase the recompence of their toil by cultivating fewer acres than they now do.

Nor do I deny that there are soils which it is not advisable to plow deeply. Prof. Mapes told me he had seen tracts in West Jersey whereof the soil was but eight inches deep, resting on a stratum of copperas (sulphate of iron,) which being upturned by the plow and mingled with the soil, poisoned the crops planted thereon. And I saw, last summer, on the interval of New River, in the western part of Old Virginia, many acres of corn which were thrifty and luxuriant in spite of shallow plowing and intense drouth, because the rich, black loam which had there been deposited by semi-annual inundations, until its depth ranged from two to twenty feet, was so inviting and permeable that the corn-roots ran below the bottom of the furrow about as readily as above that line. I do not doubt that there are many millions of acres of such land that would produce tolerably, and sometimes bounteously, though simply scratched over by a brush harrow and never plowed at all. In the infancy of our race, when there were few mouths to fill and when farming implements were very rude and ineffective, cultivation was all but confined to these facile strips and patches, so that the utility, the need of deep tillage was not apparent. And yet, we know that crops often failed utterly in those days, plunging whole nations into the miseries of famine.

The primitive plow was a forked stick or tree-top, whereof one prong formed the coulter, the other and longer the beam; and he who first sharpened the coulter-prong with a stone hatchet was the Whitney or McCormick of his day. The plow in common use to-day in Spain and Turkey is an improvement on this, for it has an iron point; still, it is a miserable tool. When at five years old, I first rode the horse which drew my father's plow in furrowing for or cultivating his corn, it had an iron coulter and an iron share; but it was mainly composed of wood. In the hard, rocky soil of New Hampshire, as full of bowlders and pebbles as a Christmas pudding is of plums, plowing with such an implement was a sorry business at best. My father hitched eight oxen and a horse to his plow when he broke up pebbly green-sward, and found an acre of it a very good day's work. I hardly need add that subsoiling was out of the question, and that six inches was the average depth of his furrow.

I judge that the best Steel Plows now in use do twice the execution that his did with a like expenditure of power—that we can, with equal power, plow twelve inches as easily and rapidly as he plowed six. Ought we to do it? Will it pay?

I first farmed for myself in 1845 on a plat of eight acres, in what was then the open country skirting the East River nearly abreast the lower point of Blackwell's Island, near Fiftieth-st., on a little indentation of the shore known as Turtle Bay. None of the Avenues east of Third was then opened above Thirtieth-st., and the neighborhood, though now perforated by streets and covered with houses, was as rural and secluded as heart could wish. One fine Spring morning, a neighbor called and offered to plow for $5 my acre of tillage not cut up by rows of box and other shrubs; and I told him to go ahead. I came home next evening, just as he was finishing the job, which I contemplated most ruefully. His plow was a pocket edition; his team a single horse; his furrows at most five inches deep. I paid him but told him plainly that I would have preferred to give the money for nothing. He insisted that he had plowed for me as he plowed for others all around me. "I will tell you," I rejoined, "exactly how this will work. Throughout the spring and early Summer, we shall have frequent rains and moderate heat: thus far, my crops will do well.—But then will come hot weeks, with little or no rains; and they will dry up, this shallow soil, and every thing planted thereon."

The result signally justified my prediction. We had frequent rains and cloudy, mild weather, till the 1st of July, when the clouds vanished, the sun came out intensely hot, and we had scarcely a sprinkle till the 1st of September, by which time my Corn and Potatoes had about given up the ghost. Like the seed which fell on stony ground in the parable of the Sower, that which I had planted had withered away because there was no root; and my prospect for a harvest was utterly blighted, where, with twelve inches of loose, fertile, well pulverized earth at their roots, my crops would have been at least respectable. When I became once more a farmer in a small way on my present place, I had not forgotten the lesson, and I tried to have plowed deeply and thoroughly so much land as I had plowed at all. My first Summer here (1853) was a very dry one, and crops failed in consequence around me and all over the country; yet mine were at least fair; and I was largely indebted for them to relatively deep plowing. I have suffered from the frost (on my low land), from the rotting of seed in the ground, from the ravages of insects, &c.; but never by drouth; and I am entirely confident that Deep Plowing has done me excellent service. My only trouble has been to get it done; for there are apt to be reasons—(haste, lateness in the season, &c.)—for plowing shallowly for "just this time," with full intent to do henceforth better.

I close this paper with a statement made to me by an intelligent British farmer living at Maidstone, south of England. He said:

"A few years ago, there came into my hands a field of twelve acres, which had been an orchard; but the trees were hopelessly in their dotage. They must be cut down; then their roots must be grubbed out; so I resolved to make a clean job of it, and give the field a thorough trenching. Choosing a time in Autumn or early Winter when labor was abundant and cheap, I had it turned over three spits (27 inches) deep; the first being merely reversed; the second reversed and and placed at the bottom; the third being reversed and placed above the second. The soil was strong and deep, as that of an orchard should be; I planted the field to Garden Peas, and my first picking was very abundant. About the time that peas usually begin to wither and die, the roots of mine struck the rich soil which had been the first stratum, but was now the the second, and at once the stalks evinced a new life—threw out new blossoms, which were followed by pods, and so kept on blossoming and forming peas for weeks, until this first crop far more than paid the cost of trenching and cultivation."

Thus far my English friend. Who will this year try a patch of Peas on a plat made rich and mellow for a depth of at least two feet, and frequently moistened in Summer by some rude kind of irrigation?

Gen. Thomas was very seldom moved to anger, but whenever it did come, the storm was frightful. An infantry colonel once stole a horse from a Union farmer in Kentucky, who complained of the act to Gen. Thomas, who poured out a torrent of invectives upon the officer, pulled him from the horse, tore the epaulettes from his shoulders, and made him return the horse, and pay the farmer for his trouble.

Chinese parents give away girl babies soon after birth. In this country, says the Cincinnati Times, they are retained until they become of marriageable age, when they are often regularly sold.

The New York Express gives this for testing a Christian: "Set him to putting up an old mis-matched stove pipe and keep him at it an hour. If he doesn't swear, he's seasoned."

Texas, in area merely, is the largest State in the Union. It covers 237,504 square miles, or 152,002,560 acres, which makes it nearly three times as large as all the New England States combined.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries. No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivalled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country, and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and, universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head, it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing. When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them. Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to
